

AT GLENELG

The Bays, in a very tight but good game considering the conditions, went away in the last term to win from West at Glenelg Oval today.

It is hard to figure where West lost the game, for they would have had twice as many touches of the ball as Glenelg.

West's main problem was they could not convert attacking moves as did the Bays.

Glenelg were more direct up forward, although Fred Phillis was well held by Hal Shueard.

Up to half-time Glenelg were kept in the game due to the ability of rover Voigt, Wayne Phillis in ruck, and Caldwell and Colbey in the back lines.

West never have been served in ruck as well as Aldo Russian served in the first half.

Opportunities

He thumped, placed the ball, and gave West the start they looked for.

He was assisted well by Plew and Robert Day and Leonard across centre to drive them in.

Across half-forward, Haupt and Burkett had their moments to move the ball forward, yet West did not make full use of the opportunities.

Glenelg, on the other hand, with their limited chances, converted to keep themselves in the game.

Even to this point at half-time, West looked far the better side, having many better players than the Bays.

The only difference in the second half was that Glenelg had more players winning the ball.

Marker had his moments and made full use of the improved handling of ground play.

Rawson and Newberry dragged their immediate opponents Plew and Leonard back to par to assist in driving Glenelg in.

Cut loose

Anesbury cut loose and excelled more when he had the dogged Loveday shifted from him.

This was a good move by Glenelg, who shifted Fred Phillis to centre half-forward and Loveday went on him.

This proved fruitful in the last term when Phillis fired and Anesbury combined with him to loose the new man Bertelmer.

This finally won the game for the Bays, as their best player, Voigt found direct assistance to his play and he capitalised.

Good players

In the second half, he kicked his five goals, but he, with perhaps two other players, were the only ones to keep the Bays in the game.

Wayne Phillis was one to give four quarters of football plus Caldwell at full back.

West had many good players, but their best player was Aldo Russian, who won in ruck.

Pope and Loveday were strong across half-back, while Hal Shueard at full back shut Fred Phillis out with his speed and strong play.

WINS DECIDE FINAL FOUR

BY SAM GALLAGHER

Victories to North and Glenelg today opened up a two-game gap between fourth and fifth positions in the premierships ladder.

As a result, the current leaders — Sturt, Port, North, and Glenelg — are almost certain to fight out the 1970 title.

Norwood, in fifth place, have a percentage deficiency to make up as well and would have to win all seven remaining games to have a chance of displacing Glenelg.

North, in full stride at present and with four games at Prospect to come, look safe.

The chances of Torrens, West and Woodville, three games behind Glenelg and also deficient in percentage, are even more remote than Norwood's.

The surprise result of the day was Central Districts' great effort in running Port to a close decision at Alberton.

Playing their best football for years, the Bulldogs succumbed only in the last term.

Giant ruckman Dean Farnham, making a great bid for a place in the side to meet West Australia in Perth next week, dominated the ruck.

Former West Australian Tony Casserly also was a big influence in Centrals' game.

At Adelaide, South reported their earlier success against Woodville for their second win this season.

Lindsay Backman probably clinched a place in the 21 for Perth with a match-winning game for the Panthers.

At Norwood, Bob Hammond showed he is ready for the State full-back job in a strong display, but centre half-back may cause some concern.

Phillip Nelson has yet to regain form while Glen Pill was comparatively quiet at Thebarton.

Pill's form generally, of course, has been outstanding in the position, but Sturt full back Tony Burgan must also come into consideration.
