Glenelg 17-20, Sturt 11-13

Glenelg celebrated Graham Cornes' 250th game with a convincing win over Sturt at the Glenelg Oval.

They dominated the game from the first bounce and Sturt never looked like making a game of it.

Cornes received a warm reception from the crowd as he led Glenelg on to the ground and followed up with 16 kicks, 17 handballs and 11 marks for the day.

But it was a complete team effort by the Tigers. They dominated at the centre bounce.

A breeze

And they were in control in most positions on the ground.

The first quarter saw Glenelg kicking with a breeze which may have been worth four goals.

Even at this stage Glenelg showed that they were determined to be first to the ball, with Coppings playing a ripper on his flank, and Holst a great game in defence.

Weston provided tons of drive. They slammed on 8-4 to Sturt's 2-4 and really had the Sturt back line under pressure.

Hardeman was having a great tussle with Phil Rogers and Leonard was stemming many Glenelg drives.

The second quarter saw Sturt take it up to Glenelg, Hardeman cut Rogers out of the game, Mutton was giving more drive at centre wing and Friedrichs was grabbing kicks all over the ground.

Graham Cornes... he really celebrated

For Glenelg it was Hodgeman playing great football, and Coppings continuing to do well.

The third quarter was Glenelg's and they virtually "killed" the game off as far as Sturt were concerned.

Some of Holst's defensive play was brilliant, Weston was bobbing up all over the ground, and apart from some poor kicking for goal, it was a great quarter for the Tigers.

Sturt had no chance in the last term. They could not set any system up in the forward lines but kicked haphazardly to players who were playing from behind their defenders all day.

Cornes pulled in two freakiest marks in defence to turn Sturt back.

Bradley burst in to save several times and MacFarlane played a great last quarter.

It was Glenelg's ability to grab the loose ball and get their teamwork moving which won them the day.

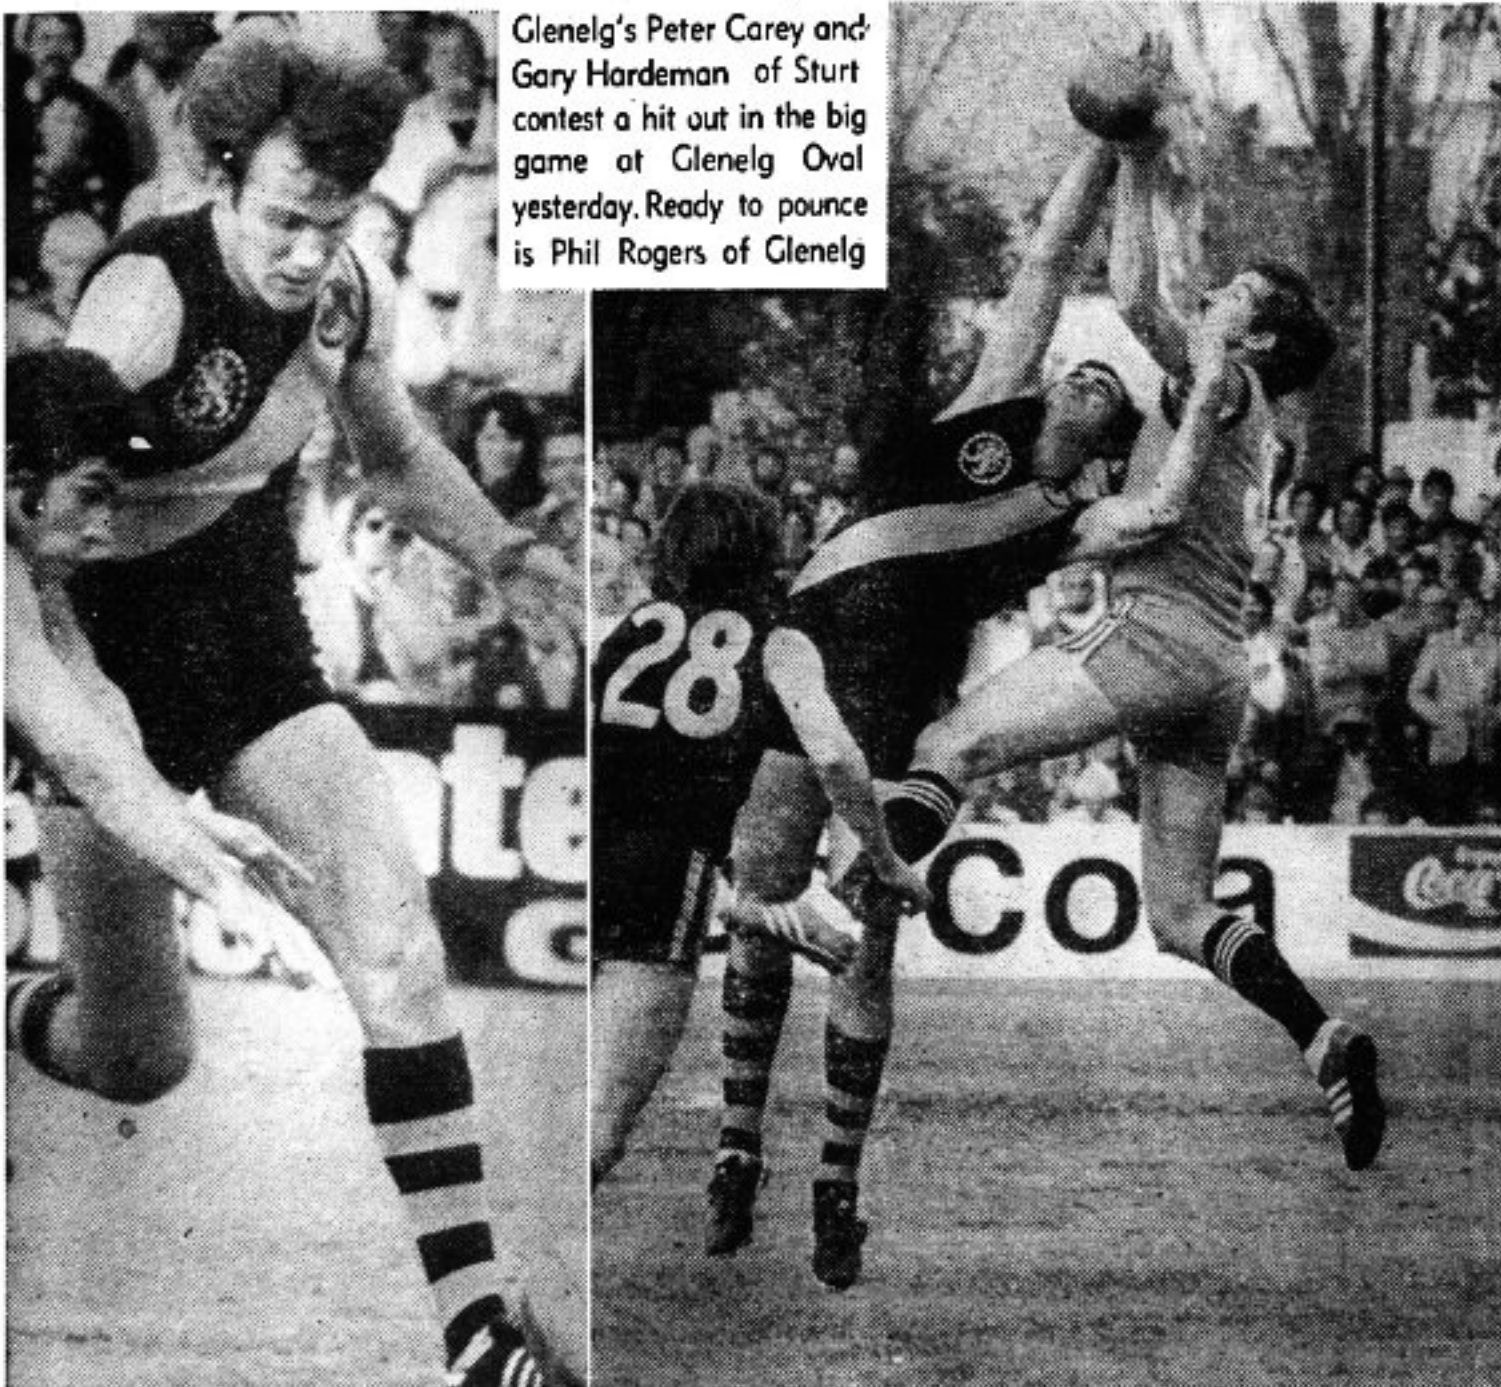

They used handball effectively all day.

Handballs saw 155 to Glenelg and 84 to Sturt's. Sometimes it went astray, but in the main it was an effective method to open up their forward lines.

The crowd, which numbered 12,485, must have been disappointed at the unevenness of the game but saw some thrilling passages.

Sturt must be becoming concerned that they can't get any real system going, and will have to do some serious thinking if they hope to win more than they lose on today's form.

Hardeman was a good player at centre half-back, Mutton had his moments and Leonard was solid on the back lines.

Glenelg's Peter Carey and Gary Hardeman of Sturt contest a hit out in the big game at Glenelg Oval yesterday. Ready to pounce is Phil Rogers of Glenelg
