BAD INJURIES HIT MAGPIES

By Ashley Porter

Craig Bradley, one of the most exciting young footballers and cricketers in SA, may have broken his left leg after colliding with a Port Adelaide team-mate at Football Park yesterday.

And in another frightening medical report, South Adelaide defender Graham Brooksby was admitted into Royal Adelaide Hospital with a kidney injury.

The injuries marred a fantastic day of league football in which 47,101 people soaked up the hot weather to see five top matches, including South's shock win over Glenelg.

Bradley, 18, crashed with Brenton Cole in the last minute of play of the first half against Norwood. Cole suffered concussion.

Cole played the match out, but Bradley was forced to come off after only 90 seconds of play in the third term.

He was able to limp around in Port's changerooms after the match, but Port medical staff said they feared he had broken his left fibula bone. He will have an X-ray this morning.

Port suffered another blow when rover Darrell Cahill was forced off with an achilles tendon strain.

Brooksby suffered his injury during the second term.

It was understood he was urinating blood at half time. He was taken to hospital and, according to South, was admitted as a precautionary measure.

North Adelaide ruckman Michael Redden may have set a record for being on the ground for the shortest time.

Scores

He suffered an ankle injury while running in for the opening bounce in the match against West Torrens and came straight off.

West Adelaide received injury scares from the match against Sturt at Unley. Half-forward John Falting has a knee problem, while captain-follower Ian Borchard has a groin injury.

Glenelg back pocket Chris Duthy was carried off with concussion during the match against South.

South's win was a remarkable turnaround after it was thrashed by Port last week.

North is the only team undereated after two rounds.

The revitalised Roos-ers recorded their biggest score at Thebarton yesterday with 24-22, and the 76-point winning margin represented their biggest win at Thebarton.

Disgusting, Halbert tells the Tigers

Glenelg coach John Halbert was disgusted at his team's loss to South Adelaide in a thrilling finish at Adelaide Oval yesterday.

"It was a disgusting exhibition," Halbert said. "They did not chase, block, tackle — they did none of the things required of a top football side."

The game was a hard, gruelling battle from the first bounce.

There never was much between the teams at any stage during the day.

What the final quarter may have lacked in skill and style, it made up for in excitement and desperation.

The lead changed four times in the final term.

Dodged

Players who had not been sighted all day came into the game, including South's Ron Hateley, who kicked three great and much needed goals.

It was such an even game that a draw may have been the fairest outcome.

The first rovers for both sides were the best players on the ground.

South's Mark Naley was in everything from the first bounce.

He dodged and weaved through packs of players as if they were not there.

He displayed all the class which made him Magarey Medal runner-up last season.

Young Tony McGuiness given the responsibility of first rover when John Paynter dropped out through injury before the game, was magnificent.

He was involved with the setting up and the completion of many Glenelg goals.

Neither team gained any advantage in the first quarter and at the break the difference was just one point.

In the second term, Glenelg moved the ball into open spaces looking for their fast, small men.

Ralph Sewer, Michael Lunnis and David Marshall were among the Tigers' players to take the ball with them on the wide flanks.

Whenever South went into attack they looked for full forward Chris Reynolds, who is an intelligent and skilled player.

Desperation and tiredness started to creep into the game in the third quarter.

Tempo

Players became drawn out of their positions in attempting to force the ball towards their goals.

The tempo of the game quickened in the final term and the crowd came alive.

Players from both teams threw themselves into the fray sensing victory and defeat at the same time.

Admittedly it was not a great game, but that final quarter had the atmosphere of games played in September.
