

Smith injury blow

By ASHLEY PORTER

Port Adelaide solidified its way to a comfortable 26-point win over Glenelg at The Bay yesterday and reaffirmed its top position on the ladder.

But there was a price. Centre half-forward Darren Smith hobbled off with an ankle injury in the last quarter.

He is certain to be ruled out for the interstate clash with Western Australia at Football Park on Tuesday night.

Patrick Brosnan, who only two weeks ago was cleared of a striking charge, again will face the tribunal after being reported by field umpire David Elliott and boundary umpire Tony Checker for allegedly striking Glenelg's John Seebohm with a forearm to the head midway through the first quarter.

Seebohm, celebrating his testimonial game, was hurt during the incident but stayed in the field.

These setbacks marred an otherwise great win for Port.

Its close checking and hard tackling hindered Glenelg, rarely allowing it to have an easy disposal.

After a close first quarter, Port gained control of the match through the centre square where ruckman Brett Chalmers and half-forward Nathan Buckley were outstanding.

Port continuously surged forward and had a clear winner in full forward Mark Tylor, who finished with 8.3, including three in the third term when Glenelg made a strong recovery bid.

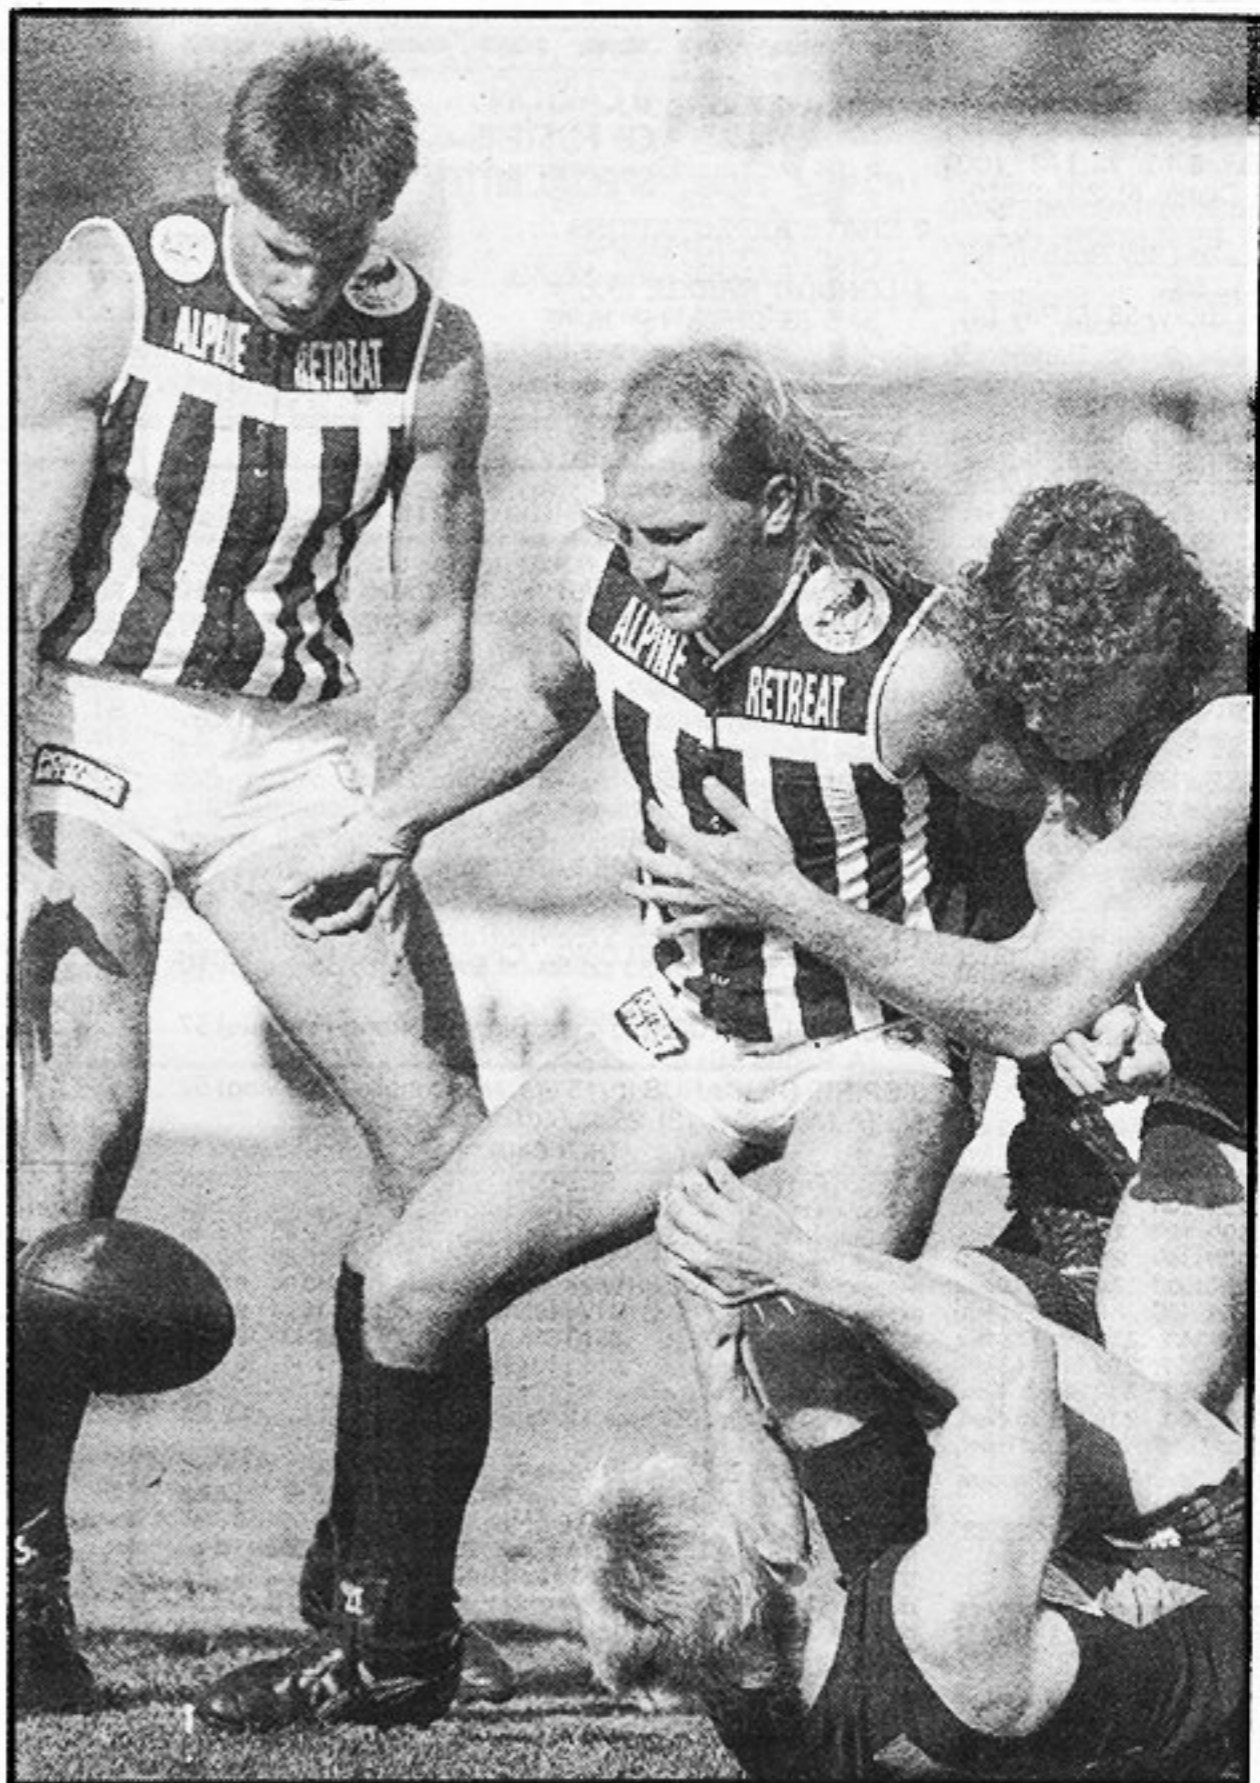

Rover Tim Ginever also was superb in the square, while Rohan Smith did plenty of good work in the forward drives.

Most times Glenelg attacked it failed to break through Port's solid and fiercely determined defence. Paul Rizonico, a victim of some heavy and unfair knocks, and Roger Delaney, were good value.

Michael Murphy was clearly Glenelg's most outstanding forward with six goals. He kicked five of Glenelg's first nine up to three quarter time.

Youngster Andrew McKay was brilliant for Glenelg at half-back.

Glenelg coach Kym Hodgeman was bitterly disappointed, especially with his team's poor delivery of the ball going into attack.
