SANFL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Table with 3 columns: Name, Team, Points

Players deserve the credit: Mickan

WARREN PARTLAND

GLENELG coach Mark Mickan has thrown all the credit for the Tigers' resurgence to the players.

While his methods in his first season with the club have had a significant impact, Mickan said the players were responsible for anything that has changed.

After struggling for too long in the eyes of supporters, the Tigers clinched their third win from five games this season when they overcame South Adelaide by 10 points in an entertaining battle at Noarlunga Oval on Saturday.

The Tigers have adopted an efficient attacking system under Mickan, using the ball more effectively and with greater patience. Not only that, they are playing with tremendous enthusiasm and commitment to the jumper.

"The players have to take the credit for what they have achieved," Mickan said. "We have set up a leadership group with standards they have set on and off the field.

"They are responsible for anything that has changed - they are the ones that do it on the field and execute what we talk about. Mature clubs expect to win and play in a fashion that reflects that. We are training that way - training with desperation and urgency. If you get that each week you get a pretty competitive effort." Mickan said there had been an emphasis on decision making with the ball and skills.

He has stressed the importance of not giving up the ball, ensuring kicks and handballs count.

That is a message Panthers coach Robert Pyman will be ramming home to his squad this week after a spate of turnovers.

Too often players coughed up possession with poor decisions and woeful skill errors.

And that is extremely costly against a committed, confident and well-drilled outfit such as Glenelg - most of which is the result of Mickan and his coaching staff's outstanding work.

Young Tigers too hungry for Panthers

Warren Partland

GLENELG has continued to fuel supporters with hope after claiming a hard-fought victory over a hapless South Adelaide at Noarlunga Oval yesterday.

The 10-point triumph has seen the Tigers climb to third on the premierships ladder and maintain their resurgence under new coach Mark Mickan.

In an entertaining scrap, which again highlighted the attacking football being employed by most SANFL clubs, Glenelg grabbed its third win from five games for the season.

The Tigers' cause was aided by a disgraceful umpiring display in the last quarter, when the visitors were given 10 free kicks to South's two. The overall count was 25-11 to Glenelg.

Mickan praised the character of his players and their accountability as a unit.

"We started off well and got in a good position at quarter time," he said.

"A lack of intensity and mental lapses can sometimes happen when you go with the breeze.

"The intensity went out of it in the second quarter and to the players' credit, they got it back.

"That is something the players can draw on. No matter what the position of the game, they can bring themselves back into it. That is the important thing."

Turnovers and poor decision-making severely damaged the Panthers' bid for victory, especially in the opening quarter with a strong wind at their backs.

Too often, players coughed up the ball to opponents, and despite the huge advantage with the weather conditions, South conceded the lead to the Tigers at quarter time.

Glenelg is using the ball smarter under Mickan's guidance and the players are attacking each battle with an abundance of enthusiasm and belief in their ability.

Their commitment to get to the contest and pressure the Panthers was telling.

The complexion of the game altered in the second quarter when it was Glenelg's turn to waste the wind advantage. South, with Craig Parry superb in ruck, found its run through the likes of speedy Stephen Kenna and Scott McGlone.

An indication of the tight struggle between the two well-matched outfits was that seven points was the biggest margin in the first half.

South threatened to blow the game apart in the third term when it exploded to a 27-point lead. Robert Handby, guilty of too many turnovers early, got his game going and he fed off Parry to ignite the side.

But turnovers continued to plague the Panthers and prove extremely costly in their victory chase. In seven minutes, their lead was cut from 27 to nine and Glenelg had the momentum.

Acting Tigers captain Adam Fisher was superb. Ben Moore tireless and Justin McConnell influential. And a spate of bewildering umpiring decisions also had a major impact in the last term.
